

To Military Companies.
Henceforth we will require the pay in advance for all numbers of men and drab. We also desire to do so for each collection of such notices, a sum barely sufficient to cover the cost to us, and will only publish such as are accompanied by cash orders. This rule will be inviolable.

Interest Money.

The discount on Illinois, Wisconsin, Missouri, and Iowa money is so great that we cannot afford to bear the loss. Henceforth all subscriptions received by mail or otherwise we will take at only its worth, as indicated by our books.

We have received several orders for our Evening Train to be sent to subscribers by mail. It is never printed until after the departure of the afternoon train, and we do not mail it to our subscribers.

MILITARY MATTERS.

Our Cavalry Rifles will march into the State Capital on Monday evening at half past 7 o'clock, at "The Courier."

Any person wishing to join this company are assured their uniform will be supplied them free of cost.

Every member will be present by order of the Commandant.

O. T. SHAW,
Company Clerk.

K. O.—Regular meeting of the Seventh and Eighth wards east of the hill, corner of Fifth and Jefferson streets, this (Monday) evening, at 8 o'clock. Members of the different wards please attend. By order of the Captain.

56.

There will be a meeting at the hall over the National, corner of First and Jefferson streets, on Monday evening, May 6th, at 8 o'clock, for the purpose of forming a rifle company to be mustered into the State Guard.

Members will be at no expense for uniforms. All good men who are desirous of connecting themselves with such an organization are invited to attend.

IMPORTANT IF TRUE.

The telegraph reports that Gen. Pillow and troops of the Confederate army are about to attack Cairo.

It is rumored that Lincoln will demand the restoration of Gospert Navy Yard, and the arsenal at Harper's Ferry.

THE AMERICAN TURF REGISTER.—THE OLD SPIRIT OF THE TIMES.—We acknowledge the receipt of the American Turf Register for 1860, from our friend, Col. E. E. Jones, editor of the N. Y. Spirit of the Times. This is a work almost invaluable to the turfman, and contains his old reputation as the standard turf register.

By the way, those who read our papers and do not subscribe to the "Old Spirit," will do themselves a favor by adopting our suggestion and sending for it forthwith. It is fair and honest, and furnishes the real account about of sporting affairs.

FANCY AND STAPLE DRY GOODS AT COST.

Among the many goods which we wear low selling at cost, we would call particular attention to our large and elegant stock of Silks, comprising every variety of Plain and Figured Black and Colored Silks, which will be sold at cost and less than cost. Also, our stock of Linen, Damask, Drapery, Napkins, &c., and our stock of Embroideries, Lace, Linen Handkerchiefs, White Goods, Hosiery, Gloves, Fans, Parasols, lace, Lace Musters, Silk Mantles, &c., &c., together with our entire stock of goods, must and will be sold.

S. BARKER & CO.,
my 4th 514 Fourth, Louisville, Ky.

A NEW ALBANIAN DROWNS.—Last Sunday, Edward Kemp, son of David Kemp, of New Albany, was drowned in Lake Pontchartrain, near New Orleans, by falling off the steamer Lewis Whiteman. He was second engineer of the boat, and was on watch when he fell overboard.

The boat was stopped in time to rescue him, but it was struck by the wheel of the boat and killed. Kemp was 24 years of age, was born and raised here, and was esteemed by all who knew him.

ENTERTAINMENT FOR BENEVOLENT PURPOSES.—The Juvenile Dramatic Association will give an entertainment on Monday evening at Mozart Hall, the proceeds will be donated for a benevolent object, which commends it to the consideration of every one. Master Nancy Sammon will be highly volunteered and will play Richard III. Mr. Herman Walstock will appear as Poldy Miles, in the Limerick Boy. Miss Fanny Ullman and other amateurs will appear.

THE GLASS FOUNTAIN.—This is the title of a very handsomely gotten up piece of new music just issued by C. H. Campbell, Esq., of the Capitol Drug Store, and composed by Charlie Ward. We have always known there was music in Mr. Stratton, and the "Glass Fountain" does credit to his enterprise, taste and liberality.

Laws.—Last evening a little boy, nearly five years old, strayed from home. His name is Edward Parker. He had on a dark cap, red velvet jacket and red socks. Those interested will be greatly relieved, if whenever should encounter the lad would leave him at Sandy Owen's stable, on Market street, just above Tenth.

JAMES WARD, Esq., publishes a letter in the Owensboro' Shield, in which he opposes immediate secession; favors the call of a State Convention and arming the State, and denounces "armed neutrality as sheer cowardice." Kentucky must eventually, he concedes, unite with the South.

APPAREL IN RUESSVILLE.—We learn that Mr. W. H. Morrissey, in Russellville, Ky., on Thursday, which resulted in a man named Page killing another man named Casey. A Mr. Sherrick was also wounded by a shot gun. The difficulty originated about political masters. Page escaped.

GARRET.—This officer, who was arrested at Harper's Ferry and taken to Richmond, had a pleasant interview with Gov. Letcher, after which he was released, and proceeded to Washington, where he has arrived.

A regiment of volunteers was mustered into service in Nashville, Tennessee, on Thursday. It elected Geo. Jackson, colonel; T. F. Sevier, Lieutenant-Colonel, and A. M. Looney, Major.

JEFFERSON COUNTY CRIMINAL TRIAL.—The criminal trial of the Jefferson Circuit Court commenced to-day. We learn that the docket is unusually heavy.

The Arkansaw Convention meets on the 6th of May. There is no doubt it will decide her out of the Union by an almost unanimous vote.

APPOINTMENT BY LINCOLN.—Mr. Lincoln has appointed Hon. Jas. Harlan attorney for Kentucky, and Alex. H. Sueds marshal of the State.

SHOOTING.—A negro of W. J. Walker and another belonging to W. N. Broadhead, was killed in Montgomery county last week by violence.

Jno. Dunavan fell over the Bluff at Bowling Green, Ky., the other night, and was instantly killed. He was drunk.

See Slave Advertisements. Money loaned on diamonds, &c. Office on Main Street, between Third and Fourth.

The National Intelligencer informs us that Mr. Justice Campbell, of the Supreme Court, has positively resigned.

There was a very heavy fall of rain yesterday.

LOUISVILLE DAILY COURIER

State Library

VOLUME 32.

LOUISVILLE, KENTUCKY. MONDAY MORNING, MAY 6, 1861.

NUMBER 110.

FROM WASHINGTON.
Implements to Travel—Appointments.

[Special Report to the Standard Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, May 3.

Fort Pickens will be immediately reinforced with more men, provisions and ammunitions, and the less gun from the rebels will be returned with a continued force of 1,000 men to hold it. In addition, these men will be sent to fortify the blocking lines soon to begin in operation, while circumstances may require the fort to be garrisoned at some particular point of a long harbor or river. The administration is still reviewing a wise course in calling for an additional force, and it is believed that it will be necessary soon to issue a call for another 10,000. There was not specific enough on hand to pay off the Government employes.

The arrival of the "Star Spangled Banner" will have the effect of increasing the military force and making it more difficult for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, has an interview with Sec'y of War to-day, and made arrangements for the speedy resumption of regular trains for the supply of troops. It is expected a fine train passed between here and Baltimore.

There are several early loads of mail matter, among which are the following:
1. The garrison at Fortress Monroe is, doubtless, very large and well appointed, with a single round of grape or canister for his heavy guns, though these months are considered the period of greatest feeding for the fort began. In fact, while civil war was reigning in Baltimore, not even our friends had their muskets loaded, and we are told that the rebels, by surprise, had the whole army ready for their operations to embrace this fort, they could have taken it without the slightest difficulty.

On the 19th last, we had not a single major in position for firing; nor was there a single round of grape or canister for his heavy guns, though these months are considered the period of greatest feeding for the fort began. In fact, while civil war was reigning in Baltimore, not even our friends had their muskets loaded, and we are told that the rebels, by surprise, had the whole army ready for their operations to embrace this fort, they could have taken it without the slightest difficulty.

2. The garrison at Fortress Monroe is, doubtless, very large and well appointed, with a single round of grape or canister for his heavy guns, though these months are considered the period of greatest feeding for the fort began. In fact, while civil war was reigning in Baltimore, not even our friends had their muskets loaded, and we are told that the rebels, by surprise, had the whole army ready for their operations to embrace this fort, they could have taken it without the slightest difficulty.

3. The garrison at Fortress Monroe is, doubtless, very large and well appointed, with a single round of grape or canister for his heavy guns, though these months are considered the period of greatest feeding for the fort began. In fact, while civil war was reigning in Baltimore, not even our friends had their muskets loaded, and we are told that the rebels, by surprise, had the whole army ready for their operations to embrace this fort, they could have taken it without the slightest difficulty.

4. The garrison at Fortress Monroe is, doubtless, very large and well appointed, with a single round of grape or canister for his heavy guns, though these months are considered the period of greatest feeding for the fort began. In fact, while civil war was reigning in Baltimore, not even our friends had their muskets loaded, and we are told that the rebels, by surprise, had the whole army ready for their operations to embrace this fort, they could have taken it without the slightest difficulty.

5. The garrison at Fortress Monroe is, doubtless, very large and well appointed, with a single round of grape or canister for his heavy guns, though these months are considered the period of greatest feeding for the fort began. In fact, while civil war was reigning in Baltimore, not even our friends had their muskets loaded, and we are told that the rebels, by surprise, had the whole army ready for their operations to embrace this fort, they could have taken it without the slightest difficulty.

6. The garrison at Fortress Monroe is, doubtless, very large and well appointed, with a single round of grape or canister for his heavy guns, though these months are considered the period of greatest feeding for the fort began. In fact, while civil war was reigning in Baltimore, not even our friends had their muskets loaded, and we are told that the rebels, by surprise, had the whole army ready for their operations to embrace this fort, they could have taken it without the slightest difficulty.

7. The garrison at Fortress Monroe is, doubtless, very large and well appointed, with a single round of grape or canister for his heavy guns, though these months are considered the period of greatest feeding for the fort began. In fact, while civil war was reigning in Baltimore, not even our friends had their muskets loaded, and we are told that the rebels, by surprise, had the whole army ready for their operations to embrace this fort, they could have taken it without the slightest difficulty.

8. The garrison at Fortress Monroe is, doubtless, very large and well appointed, with a single round of grape or canister for his heavy guns, though these months are considered the period of greatest feeding for the fort began. In fact, while civil war was reigning in Baltimore, not even our friends had their muskets loaded, and we are told that the rebels, by surprise, had the whole army ready for their operations to embrace this fort, they could have taken it without the slightest difficulty.

9. The garrison at Fortress Monroe is, doubtless, very large and well appointed, with a single round of grape or canister for his heavy guns, though these months are considered the period of greatest feeding for the fort began. In fact, while civil war was reigning in Baltimore, not even our friends had their muskets loaded, and we are told that the rebels, by surprise, had the whole army ready for their operations to embrace this fort, they could have taken it without the slightest difficulty.

10. The garrison at Fortress Monroe is, doubtless, very large and well appointed, with a single round of grape or canister for his heavy guns, though these months are considered the period of greatest feeding for the fort began. In fact, while civil war was reigning in Baltimore, not even our friends had their muskets loaded, and we are told that the rebels, by surprise, had the whole army ready for their operations to embrace this fort, they could have taken it without the slightest difficulty.

11. The garrison at Fortress Monroe is, doubtless, very large and well appointed, with a single round of grape or canister for his heavy guns, though these months are considered the period of greatest feeding for the fort began. In fact, while civil war was reigning in Baltimore, not even our friends had their muskets loaded, and we are told that the rebels, by surprise, had the whole army ready for their operations to embrace this fort, they could have taken it without the slightest difficulty.

12. The garrison at Fortress Monroe is, doubtless, very large and well appointed, with a single round of grape or canister for his heavy guns, though these months are considered the period of greatest feeding for the fort began. In fact, while civil war was reigning in Baltimore, not even our friends had their muskets loaded, and we are told that the rebels, by surprise, had the whole army ready for their operations to embrace this fort, they could have taken it without the slightest difficulty.

13. The garrison at Fortress Monroe is, doubtless, very large and well appointed, with a single round of grape or canister for his heavy guns, though these months are considered the period of greatest feeding for the fort began. In fact, while civil war was reigning in Baltimore, not even our friends had their muskets loaded, and we are told that the rebels, by surprise, had the whole army ready for their operations to embrace this fort, they could have taken it without the slightest difficulty.

14. The garrison at Fortress Monroe is, doubtless, very large and well appointed, with a single round of grape or canister for his heavy guns, though these months are considered the period of greatest feeding for the fort began. In fact, while civil war was reigning in Baltimore, not even our friends had their muskets loaded, and we are told that the rebels, by surprise, had the whole army ready for their operations to embrace this fort, they could have taken it without the slightest difficulty.

15. The garrison at Fortress Monroe is, doubtless, very large and well appointed, with a single round of grape or canister for his heavy guns, though these months are considered the period of greatest feeding for the fort began. In fact, while civil war was reigning in Baltimore, not even our friends had their muskets loaded, and we are told that the rebels, by surprise, had the whole army ready for their operations to embrace this fort, they could have taken it without the slightest difficulty.

16. The garrison at Fortress Monroe is, doubtless, very large and well appointed, with a single round of grape or canister for his heavy guns, though these months are considered the period of greatest feeding for the fort began. In fact, while civil war was reigning in Baltimore, not even our friends had their muskets loaded, and we are told that the rebels, by surprise, had the whole army ready for their operations to embrace this fort, they could have taken it without the slightest difficulty.

17. The garrison at Fortress Monroe is, doubtless, very large and well appointed, with a single round of grape or canister for his heavy guns, though these months are considered the period of greatest feeding for the fort began. In fact, while civil war was reigning in Baltimore, not even our friends had their muskets loaded, and we are told that the rebels, by surprise, had the whole army ready for their operations to embrace this fort, they could have taken it without the slightest difficulty.

18. The garrison at Fortress Monroe is, doubtless, very large and well appointed, with a single round of grape or canister for his heavy guns, though these months are considered the period of greatest feeding for the fort began. In fact, while civil war was reigning in Baltimore, not even our friends had their muskets loaded, and we are told that the rebels, by surprise, had the whole army ready for their operations to embrace this fort, they could have taken it without the slightest difficulty.

19. The garrison at Fortress Monroe is, doubtless, very large and well appointed, with a single round of grape or canister for his heavy guns, though these months are considered the period of greatest feeding for the fort began. In fact, while civil war was reigning in Baltimore, not even our friends had their muskets loaded, and we are told that the rebels, by surprise, had the whole army ready for their operations to embrace this fort, they could have taken it without the slightest difficulty.

20. The garrison at Fortress Monroe is, doubtless, very large and well appointed, with a single round of grape or canister for his heavy guns, though these months are considered the period of greatest feeding for the fort began. In fact, while civil war was reigning in Baltimore, not even our friends had their muskets loaded, and we are told that the rebels, by surprise, had the whole army ready for their operations to embrace this fort, they could have taken it without the slightest difficulty.

21. The garrison at Fortress Monroe is, doubtless, very large and well appointed, with a single round of grape or canister for his heavy guns, though these months are considered the period of greatest feeding for the fort began. In fact, while civil war was reigning in Baltimore, not even our friends had their muskets loaded, and we are told that the rebels, by surprise, had the whole army ready for their operations to embrace this fort, they could have taken it without the slightest difficulty.

22. The garrison at Fortress Monroe is, doubtless, very large and well appointed, with a single round of grape or canister for his heavy guns, though these months are considered the period of greatest feeding for the fort began. In fact, while civil war was reigning in Baltimore, not even our friends had their muskets loaded, and we are told that the rebels, by surprise, had the whole army ready for their operations to embrace this fort, they could have taken it without the slightest difficulty.

23. The garrison at Fortress Monroe is, doubtless, very large and well appointed, with a single round of grape or canister for his heavy guns, though these months are considered the period of greatest feeding for the fort began. In fact, while civil war was reigning in Baltimore, not even our friends had their muskets loaded, and we are told that the rebels, by surprise, had the whole army ready for their operations to embrace this fort, they could have taken it without the slightest difficulty.

24. The garrison at Fortress Monroe is, doubtless, very large and well appointed, with a single round of grape or canister for his heavy guns, though these months are considered the period of greatest feeding for the fort began. In fact, while civil war was reigning in Baltimore, not even our friends had their muskets loaded, and we are told that the rebels, by surprise, had the whole army ready for their operations to embrace this fort, they could have taken it without the slightest difficulty.

25. The garrison at Fortress Monroe is, doubtless, very large and well appointed, with a single round of grape or canister for his heavy guns, though these months are considered the period of greatest feeding for the fort began. In fact, while civil war was reigning in Baltimore, not even our friends had their muskets loaded, and we are told that the rebels, by surprise, had the whole army ready for their operations to embrace this fort, they could have taken it without the slightest difficulty.

26. The garrison at Fortress Monroe is, doubtless, very large and well appointed, with a single round of grape or canister for his heavy guns, though these months are considered the period of greatest feeding for the fort began. In fact, while civil war was reigning in Baltimore, not even our friends had their muskets loaded, and we are told that the rebels, by surprise, had the whole army ready for their operations to embrace this fort, they could have taken it without the slightest difficulty.

27. The garrison at Fortress Monroe is, doubtless, very large and well appointed, with a single round of grape or canister for his heavy guns, though these months are considered the period of greatest feeding for the fort began. In fact, while civil war was reigning in Baltimore, not even our friends had their muskets loaded, and we are told that the rebels, by surprise, had the whole army ready for their operations to embrace this fort, they could have taken it without the slightest difficulty.

28. The garrison at Fortress Monroe is, doubtless, very large and well appointed, with a single round of grape or canister for his heavy guns, though these months are considered the period of greatest feeding for the fort began. In fact, while civil war was reigning in Baltimore, not even our friends had their muskets loaded, and we are told that the rebels, by surprise, had the whole army ready for their operations to embrace this fort, they could have taken it without the slightest difficulty.

29. The garrison at Fortress Monroe is, doubtless, very large and well appointed, with a single round of grape or canister for his heavy guns, though these months are considered the period of greatest feeding for the fort began. In fact, while civil war was reigning in Baltimore, not even our friends had their muskets loaded, and we are told that the rebels, by surprise, had the whole army ready for their operations to embrace this fort, they could have taken it without the slightest difficulty.

30. The garrison at Fortress Monroe is, doubtless, very large and well appointed, with a single round of grape or canister for his heavy guns, though these months are considered the period of greatest feeding for the fort began. In fact, while civil

DAILY COURIER.

LOUISVILLE.

MONDAY MORNING MAY 6.

The Voice of the State—More Money.

Our columns are so crowded that we find it impossible to make room for the proceedings of county meetings, and the hundreds of communications that are pouring in on us from every section of the State, or even to give them an extended notice.

Unveiling is going on briskly in all the adjoining counties. Logan, however, the banner county in politics, will take the lead in resisting fanaticism and aggression.

It was necessary to call the necessary of merely acknowledging the receipt of such, and intimating briefly to the public their contents.

Public meetings have been held at all the following places in Kentucky, by county, and where strong Southern resolutions were adopted, in almost every case without one dissenting voice:

CUMBERLAND COUNTY.—In Burkesville, April 26th, the speeches were made by NAT. GAINTER, Jr., of Adair, and Judge BOLES, the able Senator from the Cumberland District, and good resolutions adopted, one vote only in the negative.

NELSON COUNTY.—Mr. WILKINSON, son and Mr. WILKINSON, of Bardstown, met in discussion at Louisville, in Nelson county, on the 27th, and, as might have been expected from the ability of Mr. Jenkins and the majority of the good men, Mr. WILKINSON was easily defeated, and his friends voted to have him resign at this time by a proclamation from the President.

The first business in order was the call of a convention, and new names were called which were not responded to.

The President stated that a quorum was present, and that Congress was now ready to act.

Mr. Walker, of Alabama, said that there were two new members present from his State who had not yet had an opportunity of doing so. He referred to Messrs. H. C. Jones and N. D. Davis, Jr., who had been elected to fill the vacancies created by the resignation of Messrs. Davis, F. Lewis and Thomas Penn.

Mr. Ochiltree, of Texas, said that Mr. Louis T. Wright was present, and he had also received a telegram.

Mr. Clayton, of Mississippi, announced that Mr. J. A. Orr, the successor of Mr. V. S. Johnson, was also present, and intended to speak.

The President then called upon the Vice-President to call the Convention to order, and the Vice-President did so, and the President then adjourned.

Mr. T. R. R. Collyer, of Georgia, was called forward, took the oath, and subscribed to the Constitution.

Mr. T. R. R. Collyer, of Georgia, said that a question was presented, and the Constitution was consulted, and the conclusion of the President, he moved that a committee of three be appointed to wait on the Vice-President and inform him that Congress had now adjourned, and the President to come forward and be qualified.

Messrs. Davis, Jones, Wigfall and others voted to sustain the motion, and the resolution was carried.

Mr. T. R. R. Collyer, of Georgia, said that the committee had been retained, and in a few minutes returned, and stated that the President would in a few minutes communicate in writing to Congress.

Mr. T. R. R. Collyer, of Georgia, said that the resolution was adopted.

Reader of the Confederate States of America.—A resolution was introduced in Congress to appoint an assistant in the place of A. C. Blair, Esq., resigned.

The President presented the resolution, and after some consideration from a majority of the people of New Mexico:

MESILLA, March 18, 1861.

To the Hon. Howell Cobb, President of the Congress of the Confederate States of America:

SIR: In pursuance of a resolution adopted at a Convention of the citizens of that portion of New Mexico known as Arizona, on the 2d of April, 1860, I beg to inform you that the hour has now arrived to transmit the enclosed preamble and resolutions, unanimously adopted, with the hope and recommendation of the Confederate States of America for their consideration.

Signed by the President and the Convention.

Mr. L. W. BROWN, the remnant of the preamble and resolutions referred to was postponed for the present, and the communication was referred to the Committee on Territories.

Mr. Ochiltree, of Texas, was present, and, after a short debate, pledged themselves to arm and equip two military companies, and took steps to make the pledge good.

NELSON COUNTY.—At Bardstown, on the 29th ult., the resolutions of the meeting held in this city on the 26th of March were unanimously adopted by a large and unanimous assembly, calling for a "United South." Speeches were made by Judge T. L. BURNETT, of Spencer; W. J. COOPER, of Nelson; E. HOWARD, of Bardstown, and much enthusiasm was displayed. After the speaking, an artillery company was formed and organized, G. D. SCHULZ, Captain; D. SIMPSON, Second Lieutenant; E. E. MCKAY, Third Lieutenant.

CHRISTIAN COUNTY.—A meeting of the voters of the vicinity was held at Oak Grove, in the town, on the 27th of April, Dr. John Bell is the chair and W. T. BLACKMER'S Secretary. The resolutions adopted by acclamation are worthy of the loyal Southern Rights men of the South.

After a short debate, the gentlemen present pledged themselves to arm and equip two military companies, and took steps to make the pledge good.

GRANES COUNTY.—An immense crowd gathered at MARYFIELD on the 23d of April, with the expectation of hearing Mr. ENDERBIDGE, who had, by some misunderstanding, been announced to speak on that day. Having organized some military companies, and formed old men, formed themselves into a Home Guard, of the whole number, except those there were not three Union men. The Confederate flag was abolished, and unfeigned devotion to the cause of Southern independence was proclaimed.

FRANKLIN COUNTY.—R. W. Scott, Esq., and W. G. CRADDOCK addressed the people of Franklin, Kentucky, on the 29th ult., both of them taking strong Southern ground and opposing neutrality. They were both in favor of arming the State at once and effectually. Our correspondent says the people of the neighborhood are all in favor of a united South.

CHRISTIAN COUNTY.—On the 24th ult., a Southern Right meeting was held at Pleasant Hill, Christian county, at which about 300 were present. The speakers, who had been invited, addressed themselves to the Home Guard, of the whole number, except those there were not three Union men. The Confederate flag was abolished, and unfeigned devotion to the cause of Southern independence was proclaimed.

FRANKLIN COUNTY.—The 2d of April, Mr. D. COOPER, the President, read the President's message, asked what action should be taken with the accompanying documents.

He desired that they should not be read in public, and moved that Congress go into a secret session.

The motion prevailed, and Congress remained in secret session about an hour, when it adjourned until tomorrow.

THE POSITION OF THE ABOLITION CAMPAIGN.—The correspondent of the Philadelphia Enquirer predicts that the following is the plan of the Abolitionists on the 1st of May:

By putting together the facts which I have collected, the friends of freedom, from Washington, it becomes quite evident that the War Department has made arrangements for carrying on the war on the 1st of May, and yet are not informed, and with a view to ascertain whether that must insure success. The first operations of the campaign will be the military occupation of Baltimore, and the part of the Potomac, Maryland, and Virginia.

The President, read the President's message, and asked what action should be taken with the accompanying documents.

He desired that they should not be read in public, and moved that Congress go into a secret session.

The motion prevailed, and Congress remained in secret session about an hour, when it adjourned until tomorrow.

THE POSITION OF THE ABOLITION CAMPAIGN.—The correspondent of the Philadelphia Enquirer predicts that the following is the plan of the Abolitionists on the 1st of May:

By putting together the facts which I have collected, the friends of freedom, from Washington, it becomes quite evident that the War Department has made arrangements for carrying on the war on the 1st of May, and yet are not informed, and with a view to ascertain whether that must insure success. The first operations of the campaign will be the military occupation of Baltimore, and the part of the Potomac, Maryland, and Virginia.

The President, read the President's message, and asked what action should be taken with the accompanying documents.

He desired that they should not be read in public, and moved that Congress go into a secret session.

The motion prevailed, and Congress remained in secret session about an hour, when it adjourned until tomorrow.

THE POSITION OF THE ABOLITION CAMPAIGN.—The correspondent of the Philadelphia Enquirer predicts that the following is the plan of the Abolitionists on the 1st of May:

By putting together the facts which I have collected, the friends of freedom, from Washington, it becomes quite evident that the War Department has made arrangements for carrying on the war on the 1st of May, and yet are not informed, and with a view to ascertain whether that must insure success. The first operations of the campaign will be the military occupation of Baltimore, and the part of the Potomac, Maryland, and Virginia.

The President, read the President's message, and asked what action should be taken with the accompanying documents.

He desired that they should not be read in public, and moved that Congress go into a secret session.

The motion prevailed, and Congress remained in secret session about an hour, when it adjourned until tomorrow.

THE POSITION OF THE ABOLITION CAMPAIGN.—The correspondent of the Philadelphia Enquirer predicts that the following is the plan of the Abolitionists on the 1st of May:

By putting together the facts which I have collected, the friends of freedom, from Washington, it becomes quite evident that the War Department has made arrangements for carrying on the war on the 1st of May, and yet are not informed, and with a view to ascertain whether that must insure success. The first operations of the campaign will be the military occupation of Baltimore, and the part of the Potomac, Maryland, and Virginia.

The President, read the President's message, and asked what action should be taken with the accompanying documents.

He desired that they should not be read in public, and moved that Congress go into a secret session.

The motion prevailed, and Congress remained in secret session about an hour, when it adjourned until tomorrow.

THE POSITION OF THE ABOLITION CAMPAIGN.—The correspondent of the Philadelphia Enquirer predicts that the following is the plan of the Abolitionists on the 1st of May:

By putting together the facts which I have collected, the friends of freedom, from Washington, it becomes quite evident that the War Department has made arrangements for carrying on the war on the 1st of May, and yet are not informed, and with a view to ascertain whether that must insure success. The first operations of the campaign will be the military occupation of Baltimore, and the part of the Potomac, Maryland, and Virginia.

The President, read the President's message, and asked what action should be taken with the accompanying documents.

He desired that they should not be read in public, and moved that Congress go into a secret session.

The motion prevailed, and Congress remained in secret session about an hour, when it adjourned until tomorrow.

THE POSITION OF THE ABOLITION CAMPAIGN.—The correspondent of the Philadelphia Enquirer predicts that the following is the plan of the Abolitionists on the 1st of May:

By putting together the facts which I have collected, the friends of freedom, from Washington, it becomes quite evident that the War Department has made arrangements for carrying on the war on the 1st of May, and yet are not informed, and with a view to ascertain whether that must insure success. The first operations of the campaign will be the military occupation of Baltimore, and the part of the Potomac, Maryland, and Virginia.

The President, read the President's message, and asked what action should be taken with the accompanying documents.

He desired that they should not be read in public, and moved that Congress go into a secret session.

The motion prevailed, and Congress remained in secret session about an hour, when it adjourned until tomorrow.

THE POSITION OF THE ABOLITION CAMPAIGN.—The correspondent of the Philadelphia Enquirer predicts that the following is the plan of the Abolitionists on the 1st of May:

By putting together the facts which I have collected, the friends of freedom, from Washington, it becomes quite evident that the War Department has made arrangements for carrying on the war on the 1st of May, and yet are not informed, and with a view to ascertain whether that must insure success. The first operations of the campaign will be the military occupation of Baltimore, and the part of the Potomac, Maryland, and Virginia.

The President, read the President's message, and asked what action should be taken with the accompanying documents.

He desired that they should not be read in public, and moved that Congress go into a secret session.

The motion prevailed, and Congress remained in secret session about an hour, when it adjourned until tomorrow.

THE POSITION OF THE ABOLITION CAMPAIGN.—The correspondent of the Philadelphia Enquirer predicts that the following is the plan of the Abolitionists on the 1st of May:

By putting together the facts which I have collected, the friends of freedom, from Washington, it becomes quite evident that the War Department has made arrangements for carrying on the war on the 1st of May, and yet are not informed, and with a view to ascertain whether that must insure success. The first operations of the campaign will be the military occupation of Baltimore, and the part of the Potomac, Maryland, and Virginia.

The President, read the President's message, and asked what action should be taken with the accompanying documents.

He desired that they should not be read in public, and moved that Congress go into a secret session.

The motion prevailed, and Congress remained in secret session about an hour, when it adjourned until tomorrow.

THE POSITION OF THE ABOLITION CAMPAIGN.—The correspondent of the Philadelphia Enquirer predicts that the following is the plan of the Abolitionists on the 1st of May:

By putting together the facts which I have collected, the friends of freedom, from Washington, it becomes quite evident that the War Department has made arrangements for carrying on the war on the 1st of May, and yet are not informed, and with a view to ascertain whether that must insure success. The first operations of the campaign will be the military occupation of Baltimore, and the part of the Potomac, Maryland, and Virginia.

The President, read the President's message, and asked what action should be taken with the accompanying documents.

He desired that they should not be read in public, and moved that Congress go into a secret session.

The motion prevailed, and Congress remained in secret session about an hour, when it adjourned until tomorrow.

THE POSITION OF THE ABOLITION CAMPAIGN.—The correspondent of the Philadelphia Enquirer predicts that the following is the plan of the Abolitionists on the 1st of May:

By putting together the facts which I have collected, the friends of freedom, from Washington, it becomes quite evident that the War Department has made arrangements for carrying on the war on the 1st of May, and yet are not informed, and with a view to ascertain whether that must insure success. The first operations of the campaign will be the military occupation of Baltimore, and the part of the Potomac, Maryland, and Virginia.

The President, read the President's message, and asked what action should be taken with the accompanying documents.

He desired that they should not be read in public, and moved that Congress go into a secret session.

The motion prevailed, and Congress remained in secret session about an hour, when it adjourned until tomorrow.

THE POSITION OF THE ABOLITION CAMPAIGN.—The correspondent of the Philadelphia Enquirer predicts that the following is the plan of the Abolitionists on the 1st of May:

By putting together the facts which I have collected, the friends of freedom, from Washington, it becomes quite evident that the War Department has made arrangements for carrying on the war on the 1st of May, and yet are not informed, and with a view to ascertain whether that must insure success. The first operations of the campaign will be the military occupation of Baltimore, and the part of the Potomac, Maryland, and Virginia.

The President, read the President's message, and asked what action should be taken with the accompanying documents.

He desired that they should not be read in public, and moved that Congress go into a secret session.

The motion prevailed, and Congress remained in secret session about an hour, when it adjourned until tomorrow.

THE POSITION OF THE ABOLITION CAMPAIGN.—The correspondent of the Philadelphia Enquirer predicts that the following is the plan of the Abolitionists on the 1st of May:

By putting together the facts which I have collected, the friends of freedom, from Washington, it becomes quite evident that the War Department has made arrangements for carrying on the war on the 1st of May, and yet are not informed, and with a view to ascertain whether that must insure success. The first operations of the campaign will be the military occupation of Baltimore, and the part of the Potomac, Maryland, and Virginia.

The President, read the President's message, and asked what action should be taken with the accompanying documents.

He desired that they should not be read in public, and moved that Congress go into a secret session.

The motion prevailed, and Congress remained in secret session about an hour, when it adjourned until tomorrow.

THE POSITION OF THE ABOLITION CAMPAIGN.—The correspondent of the Philadelphia Enquirer predicts that the following is the plan of the Abolitionists on the 1st of May:

By putting together the facts which I have collected, the friends of freedom, from Washington, it becomes quite evident that the War Department has made arrangements for carrying on the war on the 1st of May, and yet are not informed, and with a view to ascertain whether that must insure success. The first operations of the campaign will be the military occupation of Baltimore, and the part of the Potomac, Maryland, and Virginia.

The President, read the President's message, and asked what action should be taken with the accompanying documents.

He desired that they should not be read in public, and moved that Congress go into a secret session.

The motion prevailed, and Congress remained in secret session about an hour, when it adjourned until tomorrow.

THE POSITION OF THE ABOLITION CAMPAIGN.—The correspondent of the Philadelphia Enquirer predicts that the following is the plan of the Abolitionists on the 1st of May:

By putting together the facts which I have collected, the friends of freedom, from Washington, it becomes quite evident that the War Department has made arrangements for carrying on the war on the 1st of May, and yet are not informed, and with a view to ascertain whether that must insure success. The first operations of the campaign will be the military occupation of Baltimore, and the part of the Potomac, Maryland, and Virginia.

The President, read the President's message, and asked what action should be taken with the accompanying documents.

He desired that they should not be read in public, and moved that Congress go into a secret session.

The motion prevailed, and Congress remained in secret session about an hour, when it adjourned until tomorrow.

THE POSITION OF THE ABOLITION CAMPAIGN.—The correspondent of the Philadelphia Enquirer predicts that the following is the plan of the Abolitionists on the 1st of May:

By putting together the facts which

